

INVITADO: Umberto d'Alesio (Universita di Cagliari)

TÍTULO: Transverse spin effects in hadronic processes: role of intrinsic transverse momenta

LUGAR: FACULTAD DE CIENCIAS FÍSICAS UCM

DÍA: 15 Febrero, 2012 (Miércoles)

HORA: 14:30 horas

AULA: Seminario Depto. Física Teórica II, Planta 2^a

ABSTRACT

Transverse single spin asymmetries observed in (semi-)inclusive particle production at high energy show amazing and challenging features. We present, within a QCD approach based on transverse momentum dependent parton distributions (TMDs), a way to describe and understand them. We then discuss how TMDs, allowing a three-dimensional picture, can deepen our comprehension of the internal structure of nucleons, in particular concerning their transverse spin content. Recent theoretical developments and perspectives are given.